Tim Pataki, White House office of public liaison, called me today about YRC. I briefed him on all things policy and political. He stated that this sounded like the exact type of company the treasury program was conceived to help. Then he committed to huddle with Brian Jack and then he would call Treasury on our behalf.

Very good development.

Talked to Sen. Young's office today. She asked for status report. Told her we were still alive but running outta time. Didn't mention anything press wise because seemed premature
